

(Washington, DC)- Congresswoman Gwen Moore introduced her new website to the public today, unveiling a full-fledged site through which constituents can become informed about the Congresswoman's legislative efforts and the services offered to them through her offices in Milwaukee and in the nation's capital.

"I want my new website to give the people of the Fourth Congressional District a closer look at what I can do for them as their representative in Washington, D.C., whether it be assisting them in their dealings with a federal agency or simply ordering a flag that's been flown over the U.S. Capitol Building," said Congresswoman Moore. "Visitors to the site can also learn about legislation, what's going on in Congress, and also my legislative priorities and contributions here in the House of Representatives."

Constituents, the public, and the media will be able to stay abreast of the Congresswoman's efforts by reading the Latest News section on the site's homepage. Constituents can also use the website to contact Congresswoman Moore with their legislative concerns, or to make any number of requests, including requests for a nomination to a U.S. service academy, for information on federal grant programs, for tours of D.C. landmark buildings, or to order flags that have been flown above the U.S. Capitol.

Congresswoman Moore's website, which features a kids section, can be found on the Internet at <http://www.house.gov/gwenmoore> .

Wisconsin's Fourth Congressional District, which Congresswoman Moore represents, consists of the City of Milwaukee, St. Francis, Cudahy, South Milwaukee, West Milwaukee, and part of West Allis.
